EMERGING AUTHOR, MOLLY WEINFURTER, RELEASES A COLLECTION OF REALISTIC SHORT STORIES ABOUT PROBLEMATIC RELATIONSHIPS

Now Available for Review

Winter Park, Florida – May 18, 2018 – Molly Weinfurter, an upcoming author, has just released an eBook titled Passing Through Darkness. This eBook includes five different flash fiction stories, all based around different types of relationships. This publication can now be accessed through Smashwords.com for $0.99.

Two of these short stories, “The Car Outside” and “The Engagement Ring”, are based around the concept of abusive relationships. “The Car Outside” is the story of a teenager named Kat, who sees her abusive ex’s car outside while she is working at a restaurant. Her friend and fellow co-worker, Addi, wants to do everything she can to help. However, “The Engagement Ring” is narrated by Bryce, a heartbroken guy that finds his ex’s ring one day, even though she mysteriously drowned last year.

Some of the other stories included are about problems between both families and friends. In “Superheroes”, a young girl named Liv dreams that her baby brother might be a superhero because a long time ago, her father told her that anything was possible. This story focuses more on family relationships and hardships rather than romantic relationships. On the other hand, “Living Like a Princess” centers around the concept of friendship between two teenagers. Kelsey and Marianna had been friends since elementary school, but Marianna had always been the wealthier friend, causing Kelsey to finally grow jealous to the point of possibly damaging their friendship.

Finally, “Meant to Be” takes a different spin on relationships. Set in the future, everyone is assigned a soulmate when they turn eighteen. Rory has always been a bit skeptical of it all, but she still hopes the system will be able to help her find true love.

Molly Weinfurter is a novelist and short story writer. She typically writes realistic fiction based around relationships. She moved from Wisconsin to Florida to get a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Creative Writing. When she’s not writing, she’s either spending time with her dog or playing Just Dance for hours.
